

Hi everyone! A BIG newsletter for you all today!

We've been working on a massive website update with many new products over the last few weeks and at last, it's live! Here's a short run-through of what you'll find:

1) Modular Resin Scenery range now available to pre-order!

Our entire tile-based modular scenery range is now online - this update includes over 100 new products! Our scenery is available in many forms, from small bags of specific tiles through to complete building kits and bulk deals. All this is available to view and pre-order now via the Hawk Wargames website and will start shipping on 6th December.

Every tile and part in the range is available in bagged batches, making it possible to design and build your own city exactly how you want it. The flexibility of this system makes almost anything possible! For more information on how the system works, see our 'Hawk Wargames Modular Scenery Guide'.

Sixteen complete building kits including all the parts needed to build a specific building are also available. Accompanying those are package deals that contain multiple buildings at a saving. A special mention has to go to the (slightly mad) Metropolis Pack - a set containing 1889 finely detailed resin parts for enough building kits to urbanise a 6'x4' table!

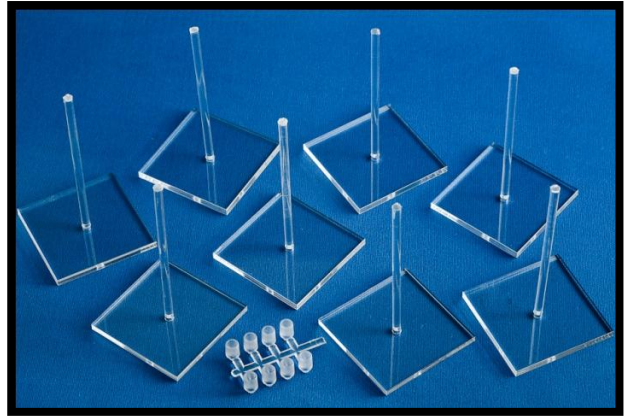

2) Xmas special deals now available!

Also launching are upgraded versions of our Large and Mega army deals. These are now available with either an outer carrying bag or in an aluminium hard case. For a limited time only, these special Dropzone Commander branded cased armies will be available at exactly the same price as the original Premium Large and Mega armies! Offer ends 2nd January, when these products will revert to the full RRP. These deals are also on pre-order and will start shipping on 6th December.

3) Flight Stand packs and Hawk Widgets online!

Our polished acrylic flight stands and the innovative Hawk Widgets are now available to purchase separately. These can be used as high quality alternatives to other products or to enable easy transportation of any aerial miniature that uses (or can use) a 3mm flight stand!

4) Hawk Wargames Open Day and Official Tournament tickets now on sale!

Come and join us in London on 26th January 2013 for our first ever official open day!

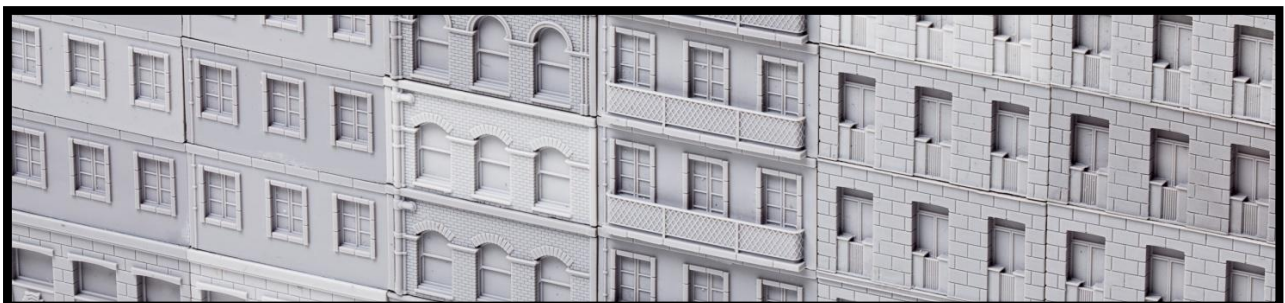

On the day, we will be showcasing work in progress, meeting as many people as possible and of course carrying the full range of our products, including our Large and Mega army deals. We will also be running the first ever official Dropzone Commander Tournament at the event! The full tournament pack will be available to view early next week (we've just been too busy with this update to finalise it yet!).

We've secured an awesome venue in the form of the Grand Hotel, Trafalgar Square, London. This ensures a fantastic setting for the day and easy travel options for many UK gamers.

Tickets can be purchased directly online and will be shipped ahead of the event - these are available either as Tournament Tickets (£15 each) or as walk-on passes (£5). We have a limited capacity at the event, so once these are gone, they're gone! Both tickets function as a special event voucher that can be redeemed on the day - more information will follow next week! Shipping is free on all tickets.

Many more announcements to follow in the coming days - stay tuned!
